

Does This Go in the Redbag?

YES!!

NO!!

Cultures & Stocks

Blood & Body Fluids

Contaminated Sharps

and all needles, syringes with attached needles, suture needles and scalpels

Anything considered
"Infectious" wastes

NEVER!!

Personal Hygiene Items: diapers, facial tissues, sanitary napkins, incontinence products

When Empty: Urine collection bags & tubing, IV solution bags & tubing, colostomy bags, ileostomy bags, urostomy bags, plastic fluid containers, enteral feeding containers & tubing, hemovacs, and urine specimen cups (unless item could potentially release liquid, dried blood or body fluids)

These Items: Catheters (urinary, suction), plastic cannula, IV spikes, nasogastric tubes, oxygen tubing and cannula, ventilator tubing, enema bags & tubing, enema bottles, thermometer probe covers. (unless the item could potentially release liquid or dried blood or body fluids)

Absorbent Items unless saturated
(can you squeeze blood out of it?)

Plastic wrapping, newspapers, soda cans, food containers, etc, etc!

$$ Disposal of Redbag Wastes cost approximately 10 times more than regular waste! $$